Aside, however, from a money point of view, there is manifestly a growing disposition on the part of the City Council representing the best class of citizens confine the retailing of beer, ale, and all other drinks to the best class of men engaged in the business: By this we tions regard for the limitations upon the traffic imposed by law. Whatever some people may think, we have a number of such, and it is believed graph lets in a flood of light on the Louisthat the tendency of a high license is to ville Library lottery and clears up the confine the business to this class of dealers, a tendency which will every year, under a judicious system of license, become more marked. Under a high license we have an exemplification of the Dar winian philosophy of a survival of the fittest, a weeding out of the low class of dealers which, under cheap license, spring up on every corner and are so many diseased fungi on the social body. We have been at a loss to understand exactly the setion to block legislation on the part of We gather, however, from the conversa tion of some that an impression prevailthe city without any law on the subject fore the saloon men can continue right on with nothing to make them afraid, the city having no remedy against them payment of all license as a species of be nevolent charity on the part of the deal-ers, paid merely to keep peace in the famtainly, but one that will hardly hold water, much less whisky. In fact there is a proneness in these latter days to dispute corporate authority and to take for granted that bodies corporate have neith er rights nor powers that any body is bound to respect. The ordinance establishing the license rate is an annual ordinance and expires on the 1st of May every year. After that it, and all privileges conferredby it, are dead in law. Therefore it is an error to suppose that the failure of the Council to agree upon a rate gives any body the right to sell without a license Such is not the case. On the contrary the ordinances of the city expressly provide that "all licenses for coffee houses, ordina-

would appear therefore that all ordinar and coffee house licenses will expire to night, and judging from the extension of the time for non-rebate by the First Branch of Council, it is not likely that a continuance of the dead lock will be to the advantage of the coffee house interest, since it is more than probable that the First Branch will insist that the dead lock having originated with and been maintained by said interest the latter must suffer whatover loss may be incurred. In other words, that the usual time after which a rebate is allowed shall be extended so as to make good to the city a full year's license.

As the result of even a suspicion of such a combination, the First Branch promptly took action extending the time in which no rebate is allowed from the lat of July. This action should, of itself, have indicated to the license interest that the First Branch was not in a temper to modify the rate of last year. Washington, April 28, 1876. The Speaker laid before the House the lecision of Chief Justice Carter, discharg-ng from custody Hallett Kilbourn. THE INDIAN DEPARTMENT.

THE INDIAN DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Seelye made a point of order on section 4, which transfers the Indian Bureau from the Interior Department to the War Department. He argued that it contradicted the rule adopted on the 17th of January, 1876, "Nor shall any provision in any such bill or amendment thereto, changing an existing law, be in order, except such as being germain to the subject matter of the bill shall retrench expenditures." This was a change of an existing law and while he did not raise the point of order that it would be manifest extravagance and an increase of expenditure, although he believed it would be, he submitted it was no manifestly for retrenchment of expendi was not germain to the appro

An Important Fact

A good Baking Powder must not only be com-posed of pure materials but the ingredients must be combined in perfect proportions, chemically. Chesp Baking Powders are being forced on the market, made up from inferior drugs, and in un-hermical combination. In use of these, more or less of injurious residue is left in the bread, the use of which will produce indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia, set.

We guarantee strict purity of material and per fect chemical proportions in the EXCELSIOR BAKING POWDER. Those who have regard to health and true exomy will use it in preference to any other. A for LOGAN, LIST & CO'S EXCELSIOR BAKINFOWDER.
